Characterful eaves with deeply arched window embrasures give this room great presence, but it required expert planning to design and build a high-function kitchen around such dominant architectural features. Custom-built by DesignSpace London, the kitchen is in the penthouse of a luxury development in West London by Fusion Residential.

At its heart is the spectacular central island, clad in vein-matched natural marble, giving the look of a monolithic, sculpted block. The hob is positioned on the island, making cooking a social activity, with steam and odours eliminated by a powerful in-ceiling extractor.

The black marble and bronze-framed breakfast bar at the end of the island forms another sculptural block. Cabinetry from Modulnova's Fly collection runs along a whole wall, tapering elegantly down into the eaves at one end. A large walk-in pantry through a door makes great use of a quirky space in the eaves, with shallow shelves for storage. Drawers and cupboards are on a grand scale, keeping surfaces clutter-free and enhancing the minimalist feel.

Modulnova's Fly kitchen collection featuring satin matt laquer doors in colour Ghiaccio, 30mm Carrara bookmatched marble worktops, 20mm antiqued Nero Assoluto breakfast bar. Kitchens from £25,000. designspacelondon.com
